

MEDIA RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – 2/1/2017

Contact information:

Rachel Nadeau, Chief Communications Officer

Cape Fear Community College

(910) 859-3471

Wilmington, NC – The Raleigh- Durham-Chapel Hill Triangle Chapter of the Antique and Classic Boat Society (RDC Triangle Chapter of the ACBS) awarded a $1,000 scholarship to Cape Fear Community College’s Boat Building program in order to promote appreciation for the history of antique vessels and the importance of preserving them for future generations.

Stephen North, a student in the program, is this year’s recipient of the scholarship. North is in his second semester at CFCC and is excited to turn his hobby into a career. “I grew up on the water and around boats, so this career is natural. I am thankful for this scholarship because without it I could not come to school,” North said. “The scholarship helps me to fully focus on the program.”

The RDC Triangle Chapter of the ACBS seeks to provide a means through which individuals sharing a common interest in antique and classic boats can meet, share experiences and information, exchange ideas, and generate enthusiasm. For more information about the RDC Triangle Chapter of the ACBS, please visit vintageboat.org.

For more information about Cape Fear Community College (CFCC), the CFCC Foundation, or establishing a scholarship, please contact the CFCC Foundation at (910) 362-7207 or visit cfcc.edu/foundation.

-END-

Serving more than 24,000 students each year, Cape Fear Community College is the seventh largest community college in the North Carolina Community College system and a major economic development partner in southeastern NC. Dedicated to providing world-class workforce training and higher education for the citizens of New Hanover and Pender counties, CFCC offers over 50 technical degree programs in a wide range of areas, college transfer programs and Career and College Promise programs for qualified high school students. CFCC was founded in 1958 and is located in Wilmington, Surf City, Castle Hayne and Burgaw.